

Residents search for relief from extreme heat

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

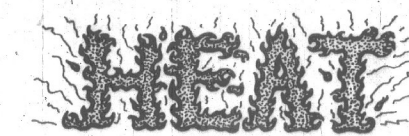

Sizzling temperatures, reaching 100 degrees Tuesday and topping 101 Wednesday, have resulted in a heat emergency alert and opening of a Heat Relief Center at the Salvation Army Community Center, 3007 E. 23rd St. Operations at the center began Tuesday noon with the facility available to all residents of the Quad-City area on a 24-hour basis, if requested. However, only one person called Wednesday and then failed to come to the center, Maxine Rutter, Salvation Army coordinator, said today.

The cooling center will continue to remain open until a break occurs in the current heat wave, Mrs. Rutter advised.

The present temperature levels, combined with high humidity, are especially dangerous to very young children, the elderly and persons suffering with respiratory or heart ailments.

Three cases of heat exhaustion were treated Wednesday at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, a spokesman said. All were admitted for observation.

Mrs. Frieda M. Roesch, 72, of 2912 Edwards St., was taken to the local medical center Sunday night with a temperature of 103 degrees and initially was diagnosed as suffering from heat stroke. She was transferred to St. John's

Mercy Medical Center, St. Louis, where she died at 1:11 p.m. Monday, apparently of a heart attack. Her death was not directly related to the heat wave, according to a spokesman for the St. Louis County medical examiner's office. Further details are given in today's obituary column.

So far, nine people have died of apparent heat-related illnesses in the bi-state metropolitan region, three from the East St. Louis area.

None of the deaths reported this week in the Quad-City area are believed to have occurred as a result of the excessive heat, a Madison County deputy coroner said today.

A total of 113 people died in the two-state metropolitan area during the 1980 heat wave.

The public Heat Relief Center is a cooperative venture of the Granite City Emergency Services and Disaster Agency and the local Salvation Army Corps, Victor H. Koenig, local ESDA director, announced.

A similar center was last in operation here in the 1980 heat emergency, when 122 persons were housed at the Corps' community building from July 15 until July 25.

At that time, volunteer workers contributed 498 manhours to those being

Henkhaus is threatened with contempt citation

By NANCY NEILL
of the Press-Record

Madison County Treasurer Michael "Mick" Henkhaus faces a possible contempt of court citation this week for not complying to a ruling that established procedures for tax collection in four townships. (For information on how and where to pay tax bills properly, see Page 4.)

Tax collectors in Nameoki, Edwardsville, Granite City and Venice townships were angered enough — by what they claim is a blatant move on

Town attorney charges that Sasyk forced him to resign

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Editor

"I have not been nor will be a political stooge for (Madison Mayor Mike) Sasyk, nor will I be a boot-licking lackey for him," Nick Vasilief, who was fired last week as the attorney for Venice Township, commented angrily Tuesday after reading quotes in the Press-Record from Venice Town Board Member Richard J. Patton that Vasilief resigned only because "We just decided to make a change in attorneys."

Vasilief contends he was fired because he refused to go see Sasyk. Sasyk agrees, saying that Vasilief has refused to assist the Madison

Democratic organization and "any time you get a political job, you have to participate in politics."

Sasyk said Vasilief, during the city election, "wouldn't put a sign in his car or in his yard. What use is that guy to the organization? Why would you want him?"

Vasilief said he was never asked to display a political sign and he questioned how a mayor of a city could cause the firing of a township official. "That's a question you might ask your readers. What is a mayor doing trying to run a township?" Vasilief asked.

Sasyk later told the Press-Record, "The city and the township are more or less co-mingled. We endorse Venice Township tickets as well as in the city of Madison. I haven't been to two (township) meetings in 10 years. How can I run the township?"

Asked if Venice Township Supervisor Christ Pashoff is simply running the township for the mayor, Sasyk responded, "That's wrong. He (Vasilief) has an ax to grind and I'm willing to take it."

Vasilief said he was fired only after he refused to see Sasyk. At the annual town meeting in April, action was deferred on appointing an attorney, although Vasilief had been the attorney for approximately 14 years. He said that after the meeting, a trustee (whom he declined to name) asked him "to go

Reopening Kube murder case

Using new investigative techniques, State's Attorney Don Weber will reopen the March 1976 case in which Richard Kube, 79, and his wife, Anna, 53, were strangled by an assailant in the basement of their home in Granite City.

Weber said this week he also will begin new probes of the November 1977 murders of Arthur Gusewelle, 61, and his wife, Vernita, 55, who suffered head gunshot wounds at their rural Edwardsville home, and the following month's slaying of Denise Stalhut, 21, abducted and strangled after leaving her job at an Edwardsville tavern.

Weber plans to work with police and the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation. Pleaded with last week's conviction of John Prante, 33, East Alton, in the 1978 killing of Karla Brown, 22, Wood River, the state's prosecutor said methods that convicted Prante will be used in the other five deaths.

Miss Stalhut's case may involve bite marks on her body. The Karla Brown investigation included bite marks, neck bruises and a burglary.

In both the Kube and Gusewelle couples' deaths, their homes were burglarized. Mr. and Mrs. Kube and Denise Stalhut were all strangled to death.

Until now, investigators have been stumped in trying to pinpoint possible suspects, despite devoting long hours to the task.

The state's attorney plans to combine the use of psychological profiles with close cooperation by himself and state and local detectives. The profiles will focus on the kinds of people who would commit such crimes.

These procedures led directly to the

Heated debate over GC budget

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

A Granite City Council session ended shortly after midnight Tuesday shed no light on an awaited levy figure, but did yield a new sewer rate, general budget and air pollution attitude.

The fragile air pollution division was one casualty of a last-minute effort to pass an appropriations ordinance that some aldermen hoped would have as little effect as possible on a future tax levy.

Passing relatively unaltered from the meeting was a separate $2.1 million wastewater treatment plant budget. A quarterly $5 rate increase for both city and county users also sailed through the marathon five-hour session. It followed in the wake of numerous rate hike defeats.

A sewer rate amendment makes half of the $5 increase retroactive to May 1 and applies the full rate to the beginning of the new quarter next month.

Third Ward Alderman Paul Fisk, pollution plant chairman, said he was surprised the council passed the new wastewater budget and rate, although he does not think the rate is adequate. It will not cover mandated bond reserve payments, and the delay in the full rate increase will mean an initial income loss this year of about $50,000.

Council members proposed a flurry of levy and budget changes Tuesday, after attending a public hearing where residents expressed strong objections to a proposed 32-percent levy rise. The cuts are expected to result in a combined $400,000 levy and budget savings that could reduce a proposed levy rate of $2.09 per $100 assessed valuation for property taxpayers to $1.74 per $100. The current rate is $1.37.

The air pollution division, previously crippled by city layoffs and intergovernmental funding disputes, was one of first areas to be cut, along with the aldermen's convention expenses.

Fifth Ward Alderman Jake Varadian made the motion to eliminate the air

Charles B. Ellsworth, 63, of Kirkpatrick Homes has been sentenced to 15 years in prison for armed violence. David Maple, 23, of 632 Lincoln Ave., Venice, has been sentenced to four years and nine months in prison for a residential burglary. In reporting the two court actions on Pages 5 and 7 of Monday's issue, the Press-Record inadvertently transposed the two headlines, and regrets the error.

pollution division. A single opposing vote was cast by Third Ward Alderman Carl Kettel, past air pollution board member. Mayor Paul Schuler said he will have to discharge the city's only remaining full-time air pollution employee.

The employee, whose office is located in the engineering department, has also been working for that department. City Engineer Monroe Brewer told aldermen they had actually cut his staff by a fourth.

The portion of the city's savings of the air pollution's $41,000 budget is expected to be about half that amount, since it covered some of the engineering department's annual expenses, including salaries.

Varadani's reason to eliminate the section was that air pollution control is not "very effective locally." The department had weathered various attempts at dismantling during the past three years, amid some controversy in the industrial-based community.

According to last year's Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) air quality report, the city ranked highest in the state in air particle pollution. The city also leads the state in lead pollution, which is the source of an on-going investigation.

Also deleted Tuesday night from the city's $8.5 million general fund budget were two of the city's four part-time attorneys, Casper Nighossian and Robert Hennessey. Nighossian handled condemnation cases, and Hennessey served as a consultant to the city's various boards, including the Plan Commission.

The motion by Alderman Sharon S. Perjak to dismiss the attorneys sparked a loud debate between her and Mayor Schuler, who appoints the legal advisers. The debate somewhat characterized a power split occurring Tuesday night between aldermen who generally vote with the mayor and those who seemed to have formed an informal voting coalition.

Those supporting Mrs. Perjak's motion were Aldermen Paul Bowler and Schuman, Second Ward; Casner, Skubish, First Ward; Varadani and Lloyd Bally, both Fifth Ward, and Bowler's ally, Mozd, Sixth Ward.

Mozd made two attempts to oust City Engineer Monroe Brewer, whom the alderman earlier attacked for his Missouri residency. The alderman did not receive a second on his proposal to oust the engineering department.

A later motion to discharge only Brewer argued the city had originally been forced into the ambulance service and said now is the right time to let "someone else" take over operations.

Defending his ambulance service, Fire Chief Donald Parente invited aldermen to read ambulance reports detailing life-saving techniques that have been performed by the city's emergency medical technicians and paramedics. Voting to retain the ambulance service were Aldermen Sam Whitner, Second Ward; Skubish and Everett Morien, both of the First Ward; Kettel and Paul Fisk, both of the Third Ward; Stephen Saltich, Sixth Ward; Bally, Fifth Ward, and Phillip Miller, Fourth Ward.

Voting to delete the ambulance service were Aldermen Schuman, Second Ward; Bowler and Mozdusic, both of the Seventh Ward; Mrs. Perjak, Fourth Ward; Varadani, Fifth Ward, and Mozd, Sixth Ward.

Other losing last-minute proposals were motions: to cut to a part-time position the city's safety director, who oversees insurance claims and workmen compensation benefits; to eliminate one-tenth of the city's street lights, and to delete the school crossing guard program in the hopes the school district would pick up the expenses.

The council also deleted $5,000 intended for its new industrial search committee and $2,000 to replace worn carpet in the police department's dispatching office.

The council decided to drop a plan to eliminate $200,000 for its sewer repair fund, even though the mayor said additional state income tax revenues might match that sum.

Other successful motions were those to cut $50,000 from levy of the fire and police pension funds and to eliminate both the budget and levy contingency funds. Those funds of $140,000 and $160,000 might have provided small reserves for future employee raises.

Debate open campus

Nameoki Road, North High has been converted to Granite City's two-year college center.

The campus regulation issue was raised Tuesday night by Board Member David Partney, who cited the size of the enrollment, safety factors and concern over drug abuse.

Situated in the heart of a large residential area and a busy business district, the high school has been open to students' departure and return, especially during mid-day lunch periods.

North, relatively isolated from retail firms and homes, required boys and girls to remain at school from the start of instruction in the morning to the close of the last hour of classes. Partney is an advocate of "closing" the high school campus as a means of assuring general adherence to rules of conduct. Whether others on the board agree has not been voiced.

He believes non-student drug pushers congregate nearby to take advantage of immature students when peer pressure has tempted them to experiment with illegal substances.

In a partially related matter, Partney obtained approval for the Aug. 2 agenda to include a discussion of whether an outdoor smoking area for high school students should be continued or ended.

He would like to see the designated smoking area abolished. Opponents of abolition have said they think the smoking area risks the school building of cigarette smoke, and makes it easier to fight illegal marijuana (cannabis) smoking.

Both North and South have had student smoking areas for a number of years.

Board members also asked Supt. B.J. Davis to outline on Aug. 2 various options that could be followed in regard to 1983-84 district-wide music and nurse services.

Robert Braundmeier addressed the board and urged that after-class elementary choral music instruction be continued.

River use tax study proposed

Waterway carriers want to pay their fair share of the costs for construction, operation and maintenance of the inland and coastal waterways, Richard A. Wilson testified Monday.

President and chief executive officer of Agri-Trans Corp., St. Louis, he appeared in Washington at Senate Water Resources Subcommittee hearing.

First, said Wilson, the government must initiate an objective and realistic allocation study of those costs which should be attributed to commercial navigation. "Congress must not accept crude and arbitrary estimates on this crucial matter," Wilson asserted.

He testified on behalf of the American Waterways Operators, Inc. (AWO), the trade association representing the national interests of the U.S. barge and towboat industry, and on behalf of the National Waterways Conference, Inc. (NWC), an organization composed of various waterways interests, principally shippers.

Wilson, vice chairman of AWO and chairman of the board of NWC, made his statement reflecting the position of the waterways industry, which is opposed to imposition of increased user taxes as proposed by the Administration in Senate Bill 1554.

This bill would recover 70 percent of Corps of Engineers' expenditures for operation, maintenance and construction on inland waterways from freight carriers only. Since 1976, the barge and towboat industry has been paying user taxes which began at four cents per gallon of fuel and are scheduled to increase to 10 cents by 1985.

Wilson said there are four main prerogatives that must be met before carriers can be asked to pay additional user fees.

"Congress must take the lead in developing facts and figures to arrive at a fair distribution of costs," Wilson said.

"Second, it must be determined what share of navigation expenditures are in the general public's interest. Freight carriers should not be asked to pay costs which are actually attributable to agricultural, industrial, national defense, international trade and other national beneficiaries.

"Third, the extent of federal assistance to other shipping modes, particularly railroads, must be taken into account in order to promote a fair and equitable public policy and to avoid marketplace distortions.

"The government has spent less than $9 billion on the waterways since 1954, as opposed to spending $11 billion in railroad subsidies in just the past five years. Fairness and balance must undergird the nation's transportation policy," Wilson stressed.

"Finally, if users are required to pay for navigation costs, they must be allowed to have a say in where the system improvements are made and in the order of priority in which they are undertaken. As I see it, user taxes are a vital component of any user-pay policy."

Other factors which Wilson asked the subcommittee to consider in its deliberations are the effects of increased costs on the economically depressed barge and towboat industry and on farmers and other shippers.

"A tax of 1.1 mills per ton-mile, as proposed in S. 1554, would increase the cost of shipping grain by barge by 27 percent," he said.

"I do not believe we should impose a taxation policy which reverses U.S. export policy," he concluded.

Borrowing is providing state balance

The state ended fiscal year 1983 on June 30 with an available balance in the general funds of $110 million, $77 million less than on the same date a year ago.

Comptroller Roland W. Burris said total general revenues in fiscal 1983 were $6,457 million, $172 million or 2.1 percent higher than FY 1982.

The 1983 growth was the second smallest annual increase in revenues since fiscal 1966, when the growth figure was $133 million.

He said revenues from state sources in 1983 were up $45 million or 3.6 percent, with boosts of $77 million from the State Lottery, a $61 million gain in sales taxes, and a $49 million increase in public utility tax receipts.

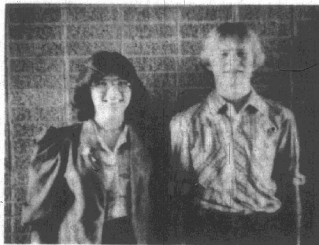

Revenues from federal sources decreased $73 million or 5.3 percent from the previous year.

Burris said total general funds expenditures in fiscal 1983 were $6,514 million, $238 million or 3.9 percent higher than the previous year.

The state spent $77 million more than its income in 1983. And the $110 million end-of-year balance was possible only because the state borrowed $150 million from the private sector (First National Bank of Chicago) under the Casual Deficits Act, the first time in history that Illinois has utilized this act.

45-day burglary jail term ordered

Jeffrey Thompson, 18, of 1919 Edwardsville Road, Madison, has been ordered by Associate Judge Charles V. Romani Jr. to serve 45 days in the Madison County jail and three years on probation.

A residential burglary charge was filed May 31 and a burglary charge was filed June 8. Thompson pleaded guilty to both June 24.

At 10:15 p.m. June 6, Thompson and two young boys were taken into custody in the 2000 block of 14th Street near a parked auto. A window of the car had been broken and a radio inside had been loosened. He was transferred the same week to the county jail.

VENICE MAN ARRESTED FOR INVESTIGATION

A Venice man has been charged with failure to appear in court on a charge of not having a valid registration and resisting arrest.

Larry Branch, 24, of 34 Lee Wright Homes, was arrested last week after police saw him in the 1300 block of Klein Street.

Police said they asked Branch to get into a squad car and he refused, saying that if they wanted to talk to him, they should come to his house. Branch allegedly took off running in an alley behind Lee Park when police told him he was under arrest. He later was released from custody.

Young Farmers to dispose of pesticide containers

The Madison County Young Farmers Council has announced that members will be accepting triple-rinsed and punctured pesticide containers for crushing on Aug. 3. This is a project that the Young Farmers have initiated to assist the agricultural community in removing a potential water quality pollutant.

Land users of Madison County have become aware of water quality problems and potential sources of pollution through the 208 Water Quality Management Planning Program.

The plan recommends a voluntary program. One of the plan recommendations is to safely dispose of and recycle all agricultural chemical containers in Madison County. To do this, the containers must be triple rinsed, punctured, and dried. Dealers and recycling centers can only process containers if these steps are followed. The Young Farmers will be available to collect and crush cans Aug. 3 at the Farmers' Service elevator in Alhambra, from 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and in Edwardsville at the F.S. warehouse from 12:30 to 4 p.m.

The above sites are not collection points at which containers are to be taken before or after the times designated. Cans that are not triple rinsed, punctured and dried will be rejected. All cans are to be delivered between the hours stated.

"If you have containers to be disposed of, you can help make this program a success. With your active participation, you will not only dispose of a potential water quality pollutant, but also indicate to the federal and state governments that a voluntary program is working and regulatory programs are not needed," a spokesman said.

New income guideline for food stamps

Starting July 1, income eligibility limits for people who use food stamps have increased, reflecting changes in the cost of living since last year.

Under the new guidelines, a family of four can have a gross income of $1,073 a month and still be eligible for assistance. Previously, the monthly income limit was $1,008.

The food stamp program currently provides food help to 22.5 million Americans. Congress requires the U.S. Department of Agriculture to update the eligibility guidelines each July according to changes in the consumer price index.

Following are the income limits for households of various sizes for the continental U.S., Guam and the U.S. Virgin Islands, listing gross monthly income eligibility standards:

Household size of one person, $327; two persons, $379; three, $491; four, $1,073; five, $1,255; six, $1,437; seven, $1,619; eight persons, $1,801; and for each additional member, another $182.

TOOLS TAKEN. Delores Chandler, 2009 Rhodes St., Madison, reported to police last week that burglars entered a storage shed at her home by prying a padlock off and took a lawnmower, assorted hand tools, a circular saw, a jigsaw and a bench grinder.

La Leche League name delegates

Ronda Anderson and Pat McMillan of Granite City will be delegates to La Leche League's Ninth International Conference in Kansas City, Mo.

The three day conference will feature actress, Mariette Hartley, educator, Dr. Burton White, The Side Tracked Home Executive authors Pam Young and Peggy Jones, and pediatric allergist, Dr. William Crook. All phases of parenting will be discussed in more than 100 sessions.

La Leche League provides information and encouragement for those interested in breastfeeding; this international conference affords the opportunity for members to hear doctors, researchers, educators, and parents discuss new, as well as tried and true ideas about parenting.

La Leche League has been serving the Granite City community since 1980 and helps approximately 80 mothers annually. Internationally, there are groups in 44 countries reaching 2,100,000 mothers with information in 23 languages. Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. McMillan have volunteered their services to La Leche League of Granite City as group leaders, which involves leading monthly meetings, telephone counseling, and speaking to interested groups.

Breastfeeding is recommended by the American Academy of Pediatrics, the World Health Organization, which proclaims that it should be encouraged in all countries. Research shows that breast milk is the "perfect infant nutrition" containing everything the baby needs. The cash savings can be as high as nine hundred dollars for the first year, the delegates noted.

Meetings are held in members' homes to acquaint those interested with the practical, physical, psychological, and social aspects of breastfeeding. More information is available by calling 878-2158 or 931-6774.

VENICE MAN CHARGED ON WEAPON VIOLATION

A Venice man was charged with unlawful use of a weapon and not having a firearm owners card after he allegedly walked into a tavern with a gun in the waistband of his pants last week.

Larry Ryder, 47, of 616 Jefferson Ave., was arrested after police received an anonymous telephone call that he allegedly entered L.C. & Lee's Tavern, 400 Broadway, Venice, with the gun in his pants.

Police found Ryder in the tavern and allege that when they arrived, he started to leave. Police said they noticed a bulge in the waistband of Ryder's pants and when he was asked to put his hands against the wall, he complied.

They said they found a .357-caliber revolver in Ryder's pants. When asked for a firearm owner's identification card, Ryder allegedly didn't have one so, police checked the computer and found that he had no ID for the revolver.

When asked by police why he was carrying the gun, Ryder allegedly said he was going to kill somebody. Police said that Ryder told them he didn't know who he was going to kill, he was just tired of being burglarized, shot at and robbed.

Ryder was released after posting $204 cash bond.

MONEY TAKEN

Porter Payne, 1033 (rear) Market St., reported to Venice police last week that while he was sleeping, burglars entered his home and took $57, a watch, $17 from his wallet and $40 that was under a radio on a dresser.

APPLIANCES STOLEN

A burglar forced open two doors and ransacked the Darrell Allen home, 2637 Iowa St., last week. Taken were appliances, rings, a watch, pictures, plaques and kitchen utensils.

Praise drug essays as thought provoking

By PAIGE ST. JOHN

Some people do it for fun, some people do it to forget things they have done.

Some people do it to be part of the gang, but people that take drugs are all the same.

They take drugs and raise hell, and when they wake up, they are usually in jail.

— From "Drugs," by Peter Schram

Peter Schram, 14, sat down one night last spring and, he estimates, in about five minutes dashed off a poem detailing the effects of drug abuse. It was enough to win him $50 and a $6 ticket to a Cardinals baseball game.

Schram, a Troy junior high student last spring, was among nearly 1,500 students who sent in essays, poems and posters to a county drug abuse contest. The winners, 104 of them, were announced last week at the county courthouse. Awards were presented by state Lt. Gov. George Ryan, Sen. Sam Vadalabene, county State's Attorney Don Weber and Jean Schram (Peter's mother) of Piasa Health Care.

Local CB Club sponsor car wash

The Potty Mouth C.B. Club will sponsor a car wash on Saturday, July 23, from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the REAM Mobil Service Station at Nameoki and Pontoon roads.

All proceeds go to finance the club's jamboree in September, which is another fund raising project with 70 percent of that event to go to the Shriner's Crippled Children's Hospital and 30 percent to the Granite City senior citizens, a club spokesman said.

TAKE $300 IN COINS Lawrence Smith, 1211 Meridian Ave., reported last week a total of $300 in pennies in coffee cans was stolen from his dwelling. The coins were contained in five one-pound cans and four two-pound cans. One can weighed 17 pounds, he said.

Although Williams said that nothing seemed to be stolen in his office or elsewhere in the church, he later reported that a vacuum cleaner worth $300, a coffee maker worth $45 and an electric cord worth $30 were missing.

Parents were mentioned frequently in the essays—both as a source of help and as a source of misinformation or problems. Several students wrote that they wished their parents would stop smoking or stop drinking.

"I try to tell my parents not to smoke but they just tell me to shut up and don't smoke when I get older and I won't," one, student writes.

ALLEGES ATTACK BY FORMER FRIEND

A Venice woman told police at 9:30 p.m. Friday of having trouble with a former boyfriend, who allegedly struck her face and then, during the argument, ran after her, wielding a stick, and chased her onto the front porch of her home.

The man then hit her back and shoulders with the stick and a fight between the two ensued in the front yard, she said. The woman had a swollen right eye, reports said.

The same man was alleged to have struck a woman resident of the Bissell Street Apartments the same night, according to reports. Both women agreed to sign complaints.

ABDUCTED, INJURED

Mrs. Fay Drennan, St. Louis, told police last week that a man used force and threats to bring her to Granite City the previous night. She was repeatedly struck and kicked before being freed. A suspect was sought.

Local winners from the Granite City, Madison and Venice area are, in the kindergarten through third grade poster contest: first place, Marion Garrett; second place, Nakia Latham; third place, Mike Mabry, Tierney Houlls, Nichol McCuller, Jeff Hobbs, Jason Karbaski and Angela Buckingham.

"The essays," Weber said, "paint a vivid, first-hand picture of the dangerous drug situation in our schools. I am surprised at the virtual request by many of them for help from the adult world in keeping drugs away and forbidden."

The contest entries were judged by local law enforcement officials, lawyers, SIUE professors and citizen activists, including Schram's mother.

"Pot, a slang term for marijuana, became a part of my life in sixth grade. Moreover, a lot of my close friends would get high every day. Nevertheless, I started, just like any young teenage does: peer pressure."

"First off, getting high was no big thing. My parents said that pot was dangerous and if I smoked it I would try and fly off buildings and hallucinate things. This kinda tickled my curiosity."

"For starters, the first couple of months I just laughed a lot, no big deal. After awhile, no more laughing, just a tired and mellow state. Getting high was an expensive way to escape from reality and all the hustle and bustle of life and facing adulthood."

How to save money on your grocery bills

Here are some important shopping tips

- 1-Check specials in food store advertisements.
- 2-Get to know the butcher and produce manager.
- 3-Find out when deliveries of perishables are made and shop on those days. Fresher foods last longer and consequently, you'll waste less.
- 4-Learn to estimate accurately the amounts of food needed. Keep a record of the amount of food you throw away in a week. It may alert you to ways you can reduce waste.
- 5-For economy and variety, use eggs, dry beans, and peanut butter in place of meat some of the time. These foods provide protein and most other nutrients that meat supplies.
- 6-Use nonfat dry milk, which is less expensive than fluid milk, at least part of the time in cooking and as a beverage.
- 7-By law, economy sizes of non-food items must save you at least 5% over other sizes of the same brand.
- 8-Try to shop as seldom as possible, preferably once a week.
- 9-Always shop with a well thought out shopping list. Try to base your list of foods on your menu for the week.
- 10-Take advantage of the special coupon offers going on at First Granite City Savings in conjunction with your local Schnuck's grocer.

Taxing The Nation's Health

Some legislators are looking for ways to defeat a proposed tax increase that could affect America's health.

The Administration has proposed an amendment to the Internal Revenue Code that would impose a tax on a portion of the health care coverage employees receive from their employers as fringe benefits.

Under current law, employer contributions to employee health benefit plans are not taxed. Under the Administration's plan, health care benefits would be regarded as taxable income for the first time in history.

Employees with families would be taxed on the amount of employer contributions for health benefits exceeding $175 per month in 1984; for individuals, the benefits ceiling, or "cap," would be $70 per month in the first year. By treating employer contributions as taxable employee income, amounts also would be subject to Social Security Tax payments.

The American Dental Association and 140,000 members hear the nation's concern with rising health costs.

Course studies death and hospice care

A two-hour continuing education course of 32 contact hours will be offered through Belleville Area College during the fall quarter. The course deals with attitudes toward death, bereavement, widowhood, children and death, funerals, hospice care and other related subjects.

The class, GSVR 016-01, is open to all college students, to all persons looking for ways to cope with their own personal attitude toward death, to assist a family member in coping with a terminal disease or to become more comfortable with these topics in their work environment.

The course is approved by the Department of Public Health and fulfills the annual continuing education requirement for participants employed by long-term facilities, and by the Illinois Nurses' Association Continuing Education Approval and Recognition Program. The course will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday evenings.

Impact of prepaid health maintenance is still small

Enrollment in health maintenance organizations has nearly doubled in recent years, although participation in HMOs remains small compared with other health plans.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) of the U.S. Department of Labor says benefits provided by health maintenance organizations generally are more comprehensive, and worker contributions to premium costs are higher than for traditional insurance.

The agency's 1981 survey of the incidence and characteristics of employee benefit plans in medium and large firms covered 21.5 million workers across most private industries, in plans paid at least in part by employers.

Ten years ago, growth of HMOs was greatly stimulated by passage of the Health Maintenance Organization Act. The June 1971 enrollment in HMOs (subscribers and covered dependents) totaled 10.3 million, nearly double the enrollment seven years earlier.

Despite this growth, HMO coverage is still limited, the survey indicates. Although 97 percent of the workers within the scope of the survey had health insurance plans, only 3 percent participated in HMOs.

The Health Maintenance Organization Act required many employers to offer a dual choice of health insurance plans, but only one-third of the HMO plans were non-contributory.

Moreover, when employee contributions were required they were higher, on the average, for HMO services.

Consideration of employee premiums focuses on just one aspect of total health care costs borne by employees, ignoring such factors as out-of-pocket employee expenses at the time services are rendered.

As District 22 Playoffs Continue

Double elimination begins; Triplets meet E'ville

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

What do Larry Corey, manager of the Tri-City American Legion baseball team, Jesse Hopkins, manager of the Alton team, Ken Schaake, manager of the Edwardsville team and Jack Parker, manager of the Collinsville team have in common?

One thing is that their teams are in the double elimination tournament to determine the North Division champion and the right to advance to the District 22 championship and perhaps beyond.

The other they have in common is that they feel one thing will determine who wins the North Division title: consistent pitching.

"Consistent pitching is what will win it," Corey said. "We split with Collinsville and Edwardsville and lost to Alton both times. We're going to have to have consistent pitching to beat those teams."

Tri-City opens the playoffs Saturday with a 8 p.m. game at Edwardsville at Hoppe Park. Tri-City and Edwardsville tied for second in the North division with 15-7 records, but Edwardsville won the home field advantage by a coin flip.

Alton plays Collinsville in a 8 p.m. game at Gordon Moore Park. Games in the winners' and losers' bracket will be held Sunday at the team that finished highest in the standings. The losers' bracket semifinal is Monday, and the tie game is Tuesday with a second game Wednesday if needed.

Tri-City could have the consistent pitching to win. Rick Daily, who plays for both Tri-City and for TUP-Spanky's, will play for Tri-City during the playoffs and should be up to the pitching staff.

Mike Zukas, the steadiest of the Triplets' pitchers, and Dan Whitsell about the three-man rotation.

There's no doubt Tri-City has the hitting to win the North Division. Heavy fielder Dave Steshel will be the top hitter in the tournament with a .424 average. Right fielder John Linhart and third baseman Vince Mitchell are both hitting .392, and catcher Dan DeFew is hitting .324.

Infielder-outfielder Mill Roe, second baseman Kevin Patterson, shortstop Brian Levin, first baseman Scott Corey, Daily and Whitsell have provided steady defense all season long.

But the player the opposing managers seem to be most concerned about is Daily.

"If Daily's going to be playing for them in the playoffs, that's going to help them a lot because he's such a good hitter. They have four or five others who can hit the ball," Schaake said.

"If Granite City's got Daily on the mound, that's going to help their pitching staff a lot," Parker said.

If any team is favored in the tournament, it's Alton, the regular season champion. Alton, which finished with a clutching nine straight District 22 games, is in a no-loss position. Since Alton is hosting the American Legion state tournament, Alton has already qualified for the state tournament.

However, Alton can win the North Division tournament and keep the other North Division teams out of the District 22 finals July 30-31.

Should Alton win the North Division, the South Division champion automatically advances to the Fifth Division tournament. Therefore, the only hope for either Tri-City, Edwardsville or Collinsville to advance is winning the North Division tournament.

Nevertheless, Hopkins said Alton is out to win the North Division tournament. "We want to keep on playing. I don't think we're going to let down again since we've already had our bad streak. We hope to play good baseball the rest of the summer."

Hopkins also feels whoever can come up with the best pitching in the tournament will win it.

This season, Edwardsville's worst enemy has been itself, according to Schaake.

"If our kids don't play well, they defeat themselves," Schaake said.

"They expect to play so well that when they do make a mistake, they get down on themselves."

"We're confident that we can play with anyone else in the league," Schaake added.

Parker, who lead Collinsville to an 11-11 regular season record, hopes Collinsville can repeat the magic of the Collinsville High School team. The Kahoks, who weren't expected to win their own regional, finished second in the Class AA finals in June.

Pete Delkus, Tom Lewis and Doug

Fish have been Collinsville's best pitchers this year. Delkus, who threw a no-hitter against Edwardsville, has been experiencing a sore arm throughout the season. When Collinsville's pitchers are on, they can complete with anyone.

"Anyone could win the tournament," Parker said. "We can play with anyone four pitchers are throwing well."

Collinsville defeated Highland 8-6 Tuesday to earn the fourth place spot.

In the South Division, Belleville won with a 15-7 record, and Marissa O'Fallon and Waterloo tied for second with 14-8 records.

Because of the tie for second, a playoff was needed to decide the second and third place teams. O'Fallon got the second place spot and Marissa was third.

Waterloo played Cahokia last night and the winner will face Fairview Heights tonight for the fourth place spot.

Belleville plays the winner of Thursday's game Saturday, and O'Fallon and Marissa also plays on Saturday. The remainder of the tournament is structured the same as the North Division.

Orgovan: After 50 years, he returns to the ring

A runaway, boxing helped him survive the Depression

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor

One of the Press-Record's first sports writers, Jack Shanley, Max Schmeling, James (J.J.) Braddock, and Joe "The Brown Bomber" Louis. All world boxing champions. The best of a difficult era, 1928-1937, a brief time before and during the Great Depression.

It was a time when boxers were fighters. A time when young men turned to the ring, ironically, for survival. There was not much else.

There were legends and losers. There was Madison Square Garden in all its glory and there were the cramped, run-down boxing clubs on Manhattan. Boxers of that era were as varied as were the boxing clubs.

One such winning boxer of that time was Erno "Babe" Orgovan.

At 5 feet 7 inches tall, Orgovan is a remnant of that difficult era. Most are deceased, others survive, but few are still as active. After a boxing career which helped him through the Depression, and did all but take him to the top, he's training young boxers in the F.Y.O. sponsored by St. John's Catholic Church in Denver, Colo. He was in Granite City last weekend visiting friends and for a relative's wedding.

He is battered face, complete with crooked nose and scarred eyes, epitomizes the period of boxing history for which he came. Each scar is another story, a souvenir from another fight.

At 65, he's still a stout man with muscular shoulders and firm biceps. A survivor.

It was that survival instinct, Orgovan contends, which led him to the ring and prevented him from succumbing to a knockout, a feat only the best boxers ever accomplish.

A 157-pound middleweight, he battled some of the best in his division, before losing back-to-back bouts to Tony Zale, "The Man of Steel" in Madison Square Garden and Chicago's Soldier's Field.

The son of Hungarian immigrants, whose father was a coal miner, Orgovan knew few personal comforts from home, hopped a train just outside of Pittsburgh and headed for the west coast, the land of opportunity.

His "Grapes of Wrath" style dreams were at least partially fulfilled in July 1932 when, at 17, he won the Pacific Coast Middleweight Championships with a three-round victory over Gale Herrington in the San Francisco Civic Auditorium.

It was his first big victory. By then he had become accustomed to hopping freight trains to get to his next bout. At times, recalling the past—his eyes scanning the ceiling, he fought nightly, getting $4 for six rounds. And that was only if his opponents didn't have more than fists in their gloves.

Babe, a name his mother gave him for his young appearance even into early manhood, explained in those days boxing was without a regulating commission. That lack of regulation tempted many fighters to seek less than honorable advantages.

"In those days if a guy wanted to load his gloves, there was nothing to stop him," he said. Orgovan included himself in that group.

"We'd tape our hands, across the knuckles, with a whole roll of tape, add some plaster of Paris, more tape, more plaster, and then soak it in a bucket. It'd set like a cast. When you got hit with that you knew it."

Orgovan believes it was just such a "loaded glove" which deafened his left ear.

"I think it was probably steel," he said.

Depression-era boxers used to rub urine on their faces to toughen them up, Orgovan said. He explained the acid in the urine used to "make our faces like leather."

The strong right hander battled his way out of the out of the ring jungles to the top middleweights and eventually fought in New York's St. Nicholas Area, Madison Square Garden and Coliseum and Soldier's Field. Along the way, he picked up former heavyweight champion of the world Jim Jeffries as a manager.

Deploying a strategy which included a "mean left hook," Orgovan won the Arizona middleweight title with a knockout over favored Christy Lewis in Phoenix in 1936.

Just six weeks later, staging one of the biggest wins of his boxing career, Orgovan mastered a 10-round knockout over Bob Ford, the Arizona heavyweight champion. It was a matchup in which Orgovan, still a middleweight, gave up 35 pounds to a much taller Ford.

"We'd tape our hands, across the knuckles, with a whole roll of tape, add some plaster of Paris, more tape, more plaster, and then soak it in a bucket. It'd set like a cast. When you got hit with that you knew it."

"Babe" Orgovan
Depression-era boxer

"Oh, I remember that fight well. He was a bull. All I could do was wear him down and try to work inside. In the 10th I did," Orgovan recalled.

By that time, Orgovan was making a name for himself in boxing circles. In 1937, after he kayaked Irish Marine Johnny Dean in Houston, he was tagged the "The Texas Blind Terror."

In 1938 he was featured in The Ring magazine. It was the pinnacle of his career.

On May 23, he met Zale for the first time in Madison Square Garden.

"Oh, that was a good one," he said cherishing the moment. With both fists clinched he described the fight.

"I had him goin', in trouble, hittin' him, trying to work my hook. There we were, goin' at it, toe to toe. None of this dancin', kissin' and huggin' stuff you see in the ring today. We were sluggin'."

It was a close fight, he recalls, but he lost the decision.

Six months later, in his first fight since his first pairing with Zale, he lost a 10-round decision to Ken Overlin in Washington D.C. Overlin opened a cut over his left eye.

He was bullying all the time. His jab pounded my eye," Orgovan said.

"I had him goin', in trouble, hittin' him, tryin' to work in my hook. There we were, goin' at it, toe to toe. None of this dancin', kissin' and huggin' stuff you see in the ring today. We were sluggin'."

"Babe" Orgovan
describing Zale bout

pointed to his left eye. "I must've run 100 miles in those 10 rounds."

Overlin went on to win the New York middleweight championship within six months.

Eager to get him back in the ring,

"Babe" Orgovan
Depression-era boxer

promoters arranged another matchup with Zale just a week after the Overlin fight, this time at Soldier's Field.

The result was catastrophic. Orgovan's trainers used brown makeup to help conceal the injured eye, but the makeup didn't fool Zale. He reopened the battered left eye and was awarded a TKO in the third round.

Zale went on to become the world middleweight champion seven months later, but Orgovan's boxing career was over.

He had battled with the best in his time, but came away with nothing, only memories. He always seemed one fight away from "the big one."

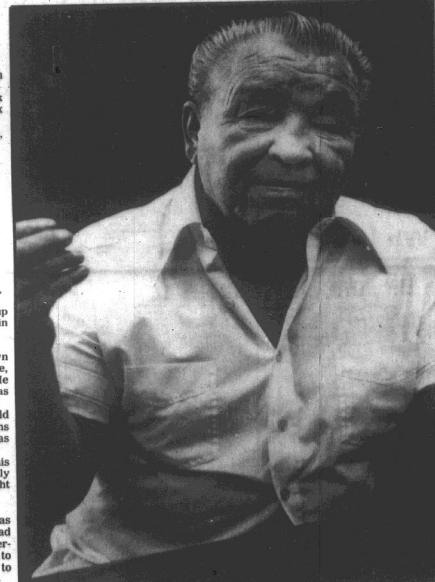

By that time, World War II was brewing in Europe. Louis had already defeated Adolf Hitler's superman, Schmeling, and Babe turned to another kind of fighting. He tried to enlist in the Army.

But because of minor handicaps he experienced in the ring, the Army turned him down. "I had the bad ear, and the doctors said my brain was not normal. They said I was punchy, punch drunk."

"It's kinda funny, the story about how my wife, Clare, and her mother," he said. "Actually, I knew my mother-in-law before I knew my wife."

He was in Benny Kobe's beer garden in Burgetstown, Pa., one evening when he noticed one of the woman employees staring at him. Her stare was so conspicuous that he remembered the woman.

That woman returned home that evening and described Orgovan to her family as "being one of the ugliest men she'd ever seen."

A month later, after he'd already married his wife, he met his in-laws. Upon seeing him, his mother-in-law immediately recognized him as the "ugly man" she had described the month before.

"That's him, that's the ugly man," Orgovan said describing his mother-in-law's reaction in his best Italian accent. After 40 years away from boxing, he returned to the ring five years ago. This time instead of slugging it out as he did, he's a trainer.

It's what he loves the most. But boxing and boxers have changed, Babe says.

"Kids don't seem to have the desire anymore," he said comparing boxers today with those of 50 years ago.

"Today they'll train for an hour and then go out and whop it up. The kids today are not as disciplined as we were. They're living too fast. And that's the reason boxers are killed in the ring. They're not disciplined."

"Nowadays it's (boxing) all run by racketeers. The main reason it's changed is money and television. Today you don't have to go to the fights. They come to you on the tube."

"We used to fight for $40 a week, now they're gettin' millions."

"I don't feel cheated though. If we'd had that kind of money then, we need a lot more work until the championships," Miss Sonnenburg said.

Nevertheless, she was pleased and surprised Paddlers won by such a huge margin.

Although Paddlers appear to have a deep enough team to win the SWISA championship again, swimming coach Celeste Sonnenburg said there is still a long way to go before the championship is won.

GRANITE CITY — Each year, the Granite City swimming and diving teams of Edwardsville are supposed to be the toughest competition for the Paddlers' swimming and diving team of Granite City.

This year, that generalization was half right. Paddlers' divers edged Montclair 37-34. In the swimming portion of the meet, Paddlers won easily, 58-20.

With the Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association diving championship coming up July 30 at Paddlers' Swim Club, diving coach Gayle McCormick knows the competition will be rough for the Paddlers' divers. Paddlers, the defending SWISA champions in both diving and swimming, will get the stiff competition from Montclair, Mrs. McCormick said.

"It's going to be tough July 30, and Montclair's really going to be after us because we beat them here," Mrs. McCormick said. "If we don't have a good day diving, they can beat us because they're more difficult dives than we do. We have to be diving well in order to win."

With top divers Lisa Lilley, Michelle Loftus, Michelle Sikora and others gone from last year's team, Mrs. McCormick had to do a lot of recruiting to build a winning team.

"Some of the people are very shy, and you have to really encourage them to instill the courage and trust to dive.

Some of our divers this year didn't know how to dive, but they have made a lot of strides."

Divers like Charlie Luehmann, who finished second in the boys 15-17 division and Stacie Gasset, fourth in the 13-14 division Tuesday, have made good strides in their first year of diving.

Meanwhile, Kathy Zeugin, Heather Crane, Wendt Knollman, Debbie McPherson, Tom Senezcyn and Jenny Baker continue to be the best divers of Paddlers.

Meanwhile, Paddlers' swimmers showed a great deal of depth against TEAM LEADER. Scott Grote, a catalyst for the Granite City Junior American Legion baseball team, led his team to victory Tuesday night against the Mitchell Athletic Club nine. Grote paced his team to a 7-5 come-from-behind win on the mound and was 2-for-4 at the plate.

York, Crowder win in Olympic games

BATON ROUGE, LA. — Craig York and Steven S. Crowder both of Granite City won gold medals during the 1983 International Summer Special Olympics Games being conducted July 12-17 here at Louisiana State University.

York won his gold medal in a track and field event, the standing broad jump. Crowder won his gold in the 100 meter freestyle relay, a swimming event.

More than 4,200 mentally-handicapped athletes from 52 countries are competing in 13 Olympic-type sports.

Special Olympics, founded by Eunice Kennedy Shriver, is the world's largest program of sports training and athletic competition for mentally-handicapped children and adults. With over one million athletes training and competing throughout the world.

Still Chasing League Lead

'Versatile' Grote leads GC past MAC

GRANITE CITY Nowadays, athletes are more specialized than ever. There are designated hitters who see action only against left-handed pitchers; running backs who only enter the game in fourth and one situations; and soccer players who emerge out of the blue just for penalty kicks. Specialization seems to be the rule rather than the exception.

Maybe that's why it's so refreshing when an athlete can come in and "do it all."

Tuesday night for the Granite City Junior American Legion baseball team, Scott Grote was that athlete.

Grote, who relieved starter Jim Fletcher, faced a 3-1 deficit when he took the mound in the third. But that didn't bother him. There was still plenty of time to pull off a victory over arch-rival Mitchell Athletic Club. And that's just what Granite City did with Grote on the mound.

With the support of his teammates' 12 hits, Grote pitched Granite City to a 7-5 victory. And, in third-place in the Junior League standings, Granite City still has a shot at the league championship.

Grote, who came from his usual shortstop position to pitch Tuesday, has also been on the receiving end of plate. During Jim Moulden's recent bout with an acute ear infection, Grote caught. Too, when players are on vacation, he's been seen pulling down fly balls in the outfield. That kind of versatility has Granite City coach Kevin Sykes smiling.

"Scotty's great, plain and simple," Sykes said. "Every team should have a Scott Grote. With all the injuries, and kids on summer vacation, all I do is make out the roster and put Scott where someone's missing. I know he can perform. I know he won't let me or the team down," Sykes said.

Admittedly, Sykes said, Grote is not his team's best pitcher. But that's because he spends so much time doing other things for the team.

"Scotty may not strike out a whole lot of batters, but he can throw strikes as well as anybody. That's how we won tonight. Scotty threw the strikes and we made out the roster and put Scott where someone's missing. I know he can perform. I know he won't let me or the team down," Sykes said.

Grote's performance and the Granite City victory overshadowed a fine performance by MAC's hurler Scott Speck. Speck, who is usually a reliever, started his first game Tuesday in two years. In 1981, as a high school sophomore, he hurt his arm, which left him an unlikely starter. But Tuesday Speck, who pitched the distance for MAC Tuesday, pitched a string of 14 scoreless innings. But starters, as he was reminded Tuesday, have a more difficult time keeping runners off the bases.

Granite City tied the game at three in its half of the third, scoring two runs on many hits.

Moulden led off with a double down the third base line. Brent Cook walked, and then Matt Roe sacrificed to left field to score Moulden.

Grote, who's been hitting at the 400 mark most of the season, belted in Cook with a single to center field.

MAC's ability to turn the double play on a run and hit, ended the inning.

MAC's savvy, however, was not limited to defense. In the first inning, Coach Myron Merz's MAC nine scattered three hits to take an early 2-0 lead.

In that first inning, Doug Druhe singled to left field and then MAC's third baseman, Randy Burgess tripled him in with a shot to deep center field.

Keith Cookley scored Burgess with a single to left field which gave MAC its two-run lead.

MAC took a 3-1 lead in the top of the third when Druhe bounced one over the fence for a ground rule double to score Jerry Booker who reached on a single.

Having tied the game in its half of the third, Granite City broke the 3-3 tie in the bottom of the fourth inning when John Konkovich reached on an infield single, stole second and third and then scored when MAC catcher Derek Merz threw to second in an attempt to catch Darrin Hasty stealing.

Hasty advanced to third, but a trio of fly balls to the outfield retired Granite City.

MAC battled back in the top of the fifth to take a 5-4 lead, but Granite City's offense ripped four hits in its three-run fifth.

Druhe continued his hot bat as he scored both Nemeth and Booker with a double down the left field line.

Behind 5-4 after MAC's fifth, Granite City sought to change that. Cook led off with a single to left field. He stole second, reached third on an error and then scored when Grote pounded a single to left field.

Conkovich broke the 5-5 tie to score Grote with a single to center field. Darrin Hasty padded Granite City's lead to score Tom Mosby, who reached on a walk.

Leading 7-5, Granite City threatened to make even a bigger inning of it, but Tom Admittis, attempting to squeeze home Hasty fled out to Speck, who threw to Burgess for the double play.

MAC, which managed to score in every other inning, failed to do so in the seventh. Three infield flies ended its hopes of a seventh inning comeback.

The game was the last regular season matchup for the two Quad-City teams. Although it is possible that each will meet in the playoffs which begin July 30.

Granite City has three games remaining. This Friday they meet East Alton at 6 p.m. Saturday they entertain second place Duplo for a 1 p.m. double header and Monday first place East St. Louis comes to Granite City for a 6 p.m. game. All three matchups will be at Granite City High School's Varsity Field.

MAC will travel to Edwardsville this Saturday for its final game of the season. The game, at Hoppe Field, begins at 3:30 p.m.

The 7-Up/Spanky's

baseball team, with a lofty

31-17 season record was marshalling its strength, checking out possible injuries and getting ready mentally for the Missouri state tournament this weekend at Maryville College.

It's worth noting that the best average in the major leagues is that of the Atlanta

Braves, pace-setter in the Western Division of the National League with a 57-35

won-loss record. Or, 14 percentage points (.620) less than Coach Eldon Warfield's

7-Up/Spanky's aggregation.

Action in the Missouri

state meet gets underway

Saturday with three games;

in addition to the 7-

Up/Spanky's, four other teams are entered: the St.

Louis Knights, the St. Louis

Sotolar Pointers, the Cape

Girardeau, Mo., Capaha, a nd the St. Louis Browns.

"We've had a really successful season to date," says

Warfield. "Our schedule was toughened over the past six campaigns and we have played the best amateur teams in the Midwest. And, what may just hurt us going into the tournaments but is a measure of our success is the fact that three of our players have signed pro contracts.

Most recent was the signing of our relief ace, Bill Morton, who inked a Phillies' contract and is already pitching out in Oregon. The two others were George Vogel, who was grabbed by the St.

Louis Cardinals, and Tim

Kavanaugh, also tapped by the Red Birds. Vogel starred in centerfield for the 7-

Up/Spanky's last summer and was an All-American for the Cougars this past season.

Kavanaugh, an ace on the University of Missouri at St.

Louis team last year and this past spring, started for us in several games this season

before joining the Red Birds'

minor league club in Erie,

Pa., in the Penn State-New York League.

Warfield was asked to name his lineup going into

handed pitching; catching, it would be Tim Gamble; at third, there was no doubt it would be Granite City's Rick

Daily; at shortstop, against the southpaw, Warfield gave the nod to Jackie Baugher;

in the outfield, it'd be a toss-

veteran Jack Scarborough

and Kan Lommel of St.

Louis; the two other outfield

slots would go to team

veterans, Bill Stolle and Darrell Wehrnd.

Designed hitter, both against left and right handed hurriers, would be John

Vital.

The only change in Warfield's lineup against a right-handed pitcher would be at shortstop with Doug

Peters replacing Baugher.

"We are lucky that we have two strong catchers in reserve," said Warfield.

"Young Daren DePew and

Kevin Heuser. And, in Kevin

Sykes we have a real strong back-up player in both the outfield and infield."

State will sell bonds for roads and projects

General obligation bonds totaling $150 million will be offered for sale by the state of Illinois on Tuesday, July 26. Budget Director Robert Mandeville has announced.

Sealed bids will be received until 11 a.m. July 26 in Room 320, at 180 N. LaSalle Street, Chicago.

The state last sold general obligation bonds totaling $90 million March 22 to a group led by Chase Manhattan Capital Markets Corp., which bid 8.3575 percent on the sale, the lowest since September, 1980.

The July 26 sale will be made up of $65 million in capital development bonds, $47 million in Series A transportation bonds for highway construction, $21 million in Series B transportation bonds for local mass transit projects and equipment purchases, and $17 million in anti-pollution bonds for local government sewage facilities.

The July 26 bonds will have equal maturities of $6 million due on Aug. 1 of each of the years from 1984 to 2008, with interest payable semi-annually on Feb. 1 and Aug. 1 of each year. The average bond maturity is 13 years.

SHATTER WINDOW

A rock-throwing vandal shattered the front plate glass window at B & P Locksmith Co., 2300 Terrace Lane, it was reported this week by the owner, Larry Brooks. Two rocks were found inside the building and others were outside, reports said.

6 schools to go on auction block

Want to buy a school? The Granite City Board of Education decided Tuesday night to seek a public auction of the Johnson, Washington, Logan, Emerson, Nameoki and Lake school buildings.

The request will go to the Madison County Board of School Trustees, which technically holds title to all public schools in the county.

By setting no exact price on the various buildings, the Granite City District Nine board will retain the right to reject any and all bids.

Along with making the unused elementary schools available for sale, the district will seek to receive any rent or lease proposals that might be submitted. Again, acceptance will not be automatic.

The district remains in a financial imbalance despite such cost reductions as closing six schools this summer.

They were North High, which has been leased to a college, and Johnson, Logan, Emerson, Nameoki and Lake, Prather is being converted from a junior high school to an elementary school.

Washington School was closed in 1979 and, until this summer, served as a center for daytime college classes.

Also closed in 1979 were McKinley School, sold to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, and Stallings School, sold to the Moore Construction Co.

School Attorney William Schoenly will be asked to arrange for the auction and also to study whether rezoning should be sought.

Board Member David Partney said potential school buyers might be inhibited if they were uncertain over whether they could obtain non-school zoning for grade schools and their campuses.

Board members said some of the schools will need to be retained for possible future resumption of District Nine classes, depending on enrollment and economic trends.

So far, there have been no firm financial offers for any of the schools scheduled for the auction block.

In other action Tuesday night, board members authorized sale of small numbers of desks, chairs and books that are not needed for school purposes.

Any proposals for sale of large volumes of equipment to individuals or groups will be brought to the board for specific approval.

A used refrigerator-freezer unit is to be sold for $75.

An old automobile-driving simulator building, from which all usable equipment has been removed, will be advertised for sale. It is located in a North High School area chosen by Belleville Area College District 522 for installation of an aircraft engine run-up facility.

The college will move a concrete-block facility here from Cahokia for use in aviation mechanic courses. The structure will be placed atop a new concrete pad 38x38 feet in size.

The site is between the gymnasium, cafeteria and hall, toward the football field. The area will be fenced.

Amy Hardin may return home on Saturday

If her health continues to progress favorably, Amy Lynn Hardin will return to her home in Cahokia on Saturday after being discharged Monday from University of Minnesota Hospitals, where she underwent a liver transplant in May.

The 13-month old youngster received the new liver five days after being admitted to the Minneapolis hospital on May 5.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hardin have made airplane reservations for Saturday. Their daughter was required to remain near the hospital this week so she could undergo testing Wednesday and Friday.

Amy Lynn will have to visit St. Louis hospitals for three blood tests her first week home and thereafter, she will be tested twice a week. She also will have to return to Minneapolis in three months for further testing.

The transplant was termed a success but, after surgery, Amy had a mild rejection of the new organ. The rejection is being controlled by drug treatments, as is, potentially fatal virus, CMV. She also has become temporarily paralyzed of her right lung, a buildup of fluid in her abdomen, and other complications.

The Cahokia child

celebrated her first birthday on June 1.

Hospital costs have reached $200,000, not including doctor's fees, lab costs and medicine, the father explained.

Several organizations in the Metro-East area held fund-raising events and donations from those and individuals reached $250,000, the estimated cost of the transplant and related expenses.

Essential to seek new skills, workers told

Speaking to the Willing Workers' American group, Stephen Colbert from the Educational Opportunity Center, a program sponsored by Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, stressed the need for all individuals, regardless of age, to obtain a skill.

"It's never too late to seek more education," he emphasized.

The group met at the Tri-City Area YMCA, where a follow-up meeting is scheduled at 10 a.m. Saturday, July 23.

All unemployed and laid-off workers in the area are invited to attend, according to Steve Ortiz, Willing Workers president.

In addressing the members, Colbert spoke about various services his organization offers. He also answered numerous questions about training possibilities and what financial aid is available.

The Educational Opportunity Center is located at 411 E. Broadway, East St. Louis.

Brenda Derby spoke about the Gardeners' Association, a community gardening project located off Route 111, near the Pontoon Beach Police Station and Central Baptist Church. She also expressed appreciation to those who supported the venture.

Sixteen unemployed persons have taken advantage of the opportunity to secure a 20-by-50-foot garden allotment and are now growing vegetables, which are flourishing, Miss Derby reported.

Ortiz said more than $300 was raised through a sidewalk sale booth sponsored by the Willing Workers' Church Women United and Project Help. The proceeds were contributed to Project Help to provide food items to laid-off workers.

At Saturday's meeting, the guest speaker will be Joe Parenti, administrative coordinator for the Madison County Community Development Agency.

Anyone interested is invited to attend, Ortiz said. Further information concerning the Willing Workers group may be secured by calling Miss Derby at 876-2305.

Building requests approved

The Granite City Council has approved the following recommendations made at the June 8 meeting of the Board of Appeals.

James Kozak, 2026 Thirteenth St., was granted a variance to allow the construction of a carport 2½ feet from the side of his property.

David Gibson, 2450 Delmar Ave., was granted permission to build a garage that will be 1½ feet from the side property lines on each side of his property. The variance is dependent on the installation of approved gutters. Gibson submitted letters of approval from his neighbors.

Phillip Hill, 2549 Boyles

Ave., was granted a building variance to build an addition to a garage. The addition will extend the garage to within five feet of the property line. Hill must install approved guttering. He submitted a letter of approval from his neighbor.

Hinner Crisel, 2917 Ash Ave., was given permission to construct a carport two feet from the side line of his property. A letter of approval was submitted from his neighbor. The variance was granted with the condition that guttering would be installed.

More school borrowing is authorized

The Granite City Board of Education gave permission Tuesday night to issue another $100,000 in building fund tax anticipation warrants, to be used as needed.

Finance Director Norman S. Owca said, "We borrowed $196,000 for the 1982-83 year and $80,000 for this year, and have permission for $44,000 more for a total of $300,000 in first-year tax warrants."

"This remaining amount will be used before the end of this month to cover the July 15 payroll, July 19 bill list and July 29 payroll."

Owca said the fourth $100,000 in warrants may not be needed because another installment is due any day from replacement taxes for the corporate personal property tax.

Also, he said, real estate tax receipts are anticipated weekly from the Granite City and Nameoki Township collectors, totaling about two-thirds of the really taxes. After August, such tax payments will be made to the county treasurer.

The board approved setting up an accounts payable checking account to be used for bill payments of the education, building, transportation, municipal retirement and joint agreement (special education) funds.

Owca related, "Transfer from the current interest-bearing general checking accounts or investments will be made before the close of banking business, each day, in an amount to cover the checks returned for payment."

"This working bank account will not carry any balance, in order to maintain our current utilization of cash investments."

"Utilizing instead of five checking accounts for bills, there will be material cost savings and also less labor in preparing and tabulating reconciliations. Our main concern will be to keep a list of the number of outstanding checks."

"This account will be used for bill payments only. It will be money controlled, and operated with a zero balance."

"A closer maximum cash flow can be achieved because deposits from investments can be written, and timed better, based on the section of the country to which the disbursement was sent."

SHOTGUN MISSING

A .410-gauge shotgun was stolen from a bedroom wall mount in a burglary at the home of Albert Payne, 2202 Missouri Ave., he reported during the weekend. The intruder removed a screen to crawl through a window, he said.

Benefits for women improve

The new Social Security amendments go a long way toward closing the gap in the protection the Social Security program provides women. Although the provisions are not based on sex, they are aimed at situations generally encountered by women as retired or disabled widows and divorced spouses.

These type of benefits are paid on the earnings of a retired, disabled or deceased worker. Men are more likely to collect benefits on their own earnings rather than as widowers or husbands, a spokesman noted.

A major change provides for continuation of benefits to disabled widows or widowers who remarry at age 60 or older.

Under prior law, disabled widows or widowers, who may receive benefits as early as age 50, had their benefits terminated upon remarriage.

The change also applies to surviving divorced spouses who would have their benefits terminated upon remarriage at any age. The change is effective for benefits payable after December 1983.

Another change increases the benefit levels for disabled widows and widowers aged 50-59. Now, the rate ranges from 50 to 71 1/2 percent of the worker's benefits, depending on the person's age.

All disabled widows and widowers will receive 71 1/2 percent of the workers benefit. This provision is also effective for benefits payable after December 1983.

Beginning in January 1985, divorced persons will be able to get retirement benefits at age 62 on their former spouse's earnings if he or she is eligible for benefits—regardless of whether the former spouse retires or applies for benefits, as was required under prior law. The applicant must have been divorced for at least two years, and the marriage must have lasted at least 10 years.

Yet another change will apply to people who are affected by the government pension offset.

The offset causes a reduction in Social Security spouse's or surviving spouse's benefits for people who receive a pension based on their own work for a federal, state or local government which is not covered by Social Security.

Under the change, two-thirds of the pension will be applied against the Social Security benefit for people who first become eligible for a government pension after June 1983.

Currently, the Social Security spouse's benefit is reduced dollar for dollar by the amount of the pension. For the affected group, the spouse's benefit will be reduced $2 for every $3 of the pension.

Finally, a provision has the effect of generally increasing the benefits on the earnings of a spouse who died before reaching 62.

The change updates the earnings levels by indexing the earnings to increases in general wages up to two years before the application for benefits or two years before the deceased spouse would have turned age 62, whichever is latest.

The new method of computing benefits will be used only where it results in a higher benefit. The provision is effective for widows and widowers newly eligible after December 1984.

As indicated, the great majority of those affected by these changes are women. However, the benefits are available to both men and women, so all are encouraged to take the time to become familiar with them.

For more information, the East St. Louis Social Security office can be called at 274-4100 or Enterprise 1-555.

'Closed' prisons unfair to public

An instinctive counter-puncher, Gov. James R. Thompson has, perhaps unintentionally, slugged Illinoisans on the chin.

The Illinois Supreme Court on July 15 upheld a court ban on extremely early releases of inmates from crowded prisons. Within hours of that ruling, the governor said the state would refuse to accept new prisoners. Corrections Director Michael Lane modified this slightly by announcing a "reservation system," which started this week at the 13 state prisons. He estimated that the system will accept "far below" the usual weekly arrival volume of 550 inmates.

There is some logic in all this, but it imposes prison responsibilities on county and city jails lacking comparable staffs, space, training, craft shops, exercise areas and recreation. And the jails' overcrowding can force many persons to be turned loose or never incarcerated, exposing citizens to increased danger of becoming crime victims.

Concern is growing that it may be a "long, hot summer," including unrest behind prison walls. Although the degree of prisoners' population congestion will be somewhat limited, the court-ordered halt to multiple good-conduct sentence shortenings is seen as reducing the incentive for inmates to behave.

Prisoners can still shorten their terms by avoiding breaches of discipline, but additional reductions for "meritorious services" will be limited to 90 days. The state increasingly had been finding excuses to quickly discharge inmates, some of whom had not been rehabilitated and committed serious new crimes.

Now, the state administration will have to come to grips with the problem and expedite its construction of new prisons and conversion of unused mental hospitals and other facilities. Since 1977, Illinois prison capacity has risen 3,500 to 13,900; but current anti-crime laws and policies have increased the number sentenced to prison each year to about 13,250, so the problem is not going to just go away.

Strong attention ought to be given to continued expansion projects. And the executive branch of the state government should not resort to further "instant solutions" that could make the general public easier crime prey.

In the meantime, does the state still feel that it should continue its lawsuit to force Madison County to assign only one prisoner to each jail cell? The capacity at Edwardsville is 96, or 115 with two prisoners in the larger cells.

I-95 bridge collapse avoidable

No matter how many street and highway statutes are enacted or revised, they will never repeal the law of gravity.

The three-fatality collapse of an Interstate 95 bridge section near New York City jarred everyone June 28 but, in retrospect, was predictable; three other 400-foot sections were found to have within five-eighths of an inch of a similar fall.

There simply is no substitute for the fundamental design and maintenance concepts that supposedly undergird U.S. traffic thoroughfares, but that in reality are not always followed. The people who plan, administer and finance traffic arteries had best get "back to the basics," and quickly.

Steel is structurally strong but, with age, it can become somewhat brittle and weak. All bridge connecting joints involving hangers or pins should be located atop concrete piers.

Where such piers are lacking, as in this instance, steel "slings" beneath the joints are essential; New York State added them years ago, but Connecticut did not and the inevitable failure occurred.

Now, too late to help the dead and injured, all states are upgrading their cash-starved inspection and repair programs.

A factor along with the age of bridge elements is the pattern of temperature changes. It is necessary to not only keep girders locked together but also to do so in such a way that the bridge can expand and contract.

The alternative to expansion and contraction is unacceptable—"frozen" joints that lead to cracking, structural fractures, and tragedies like that on I-95. Illinois' state and Interstate roads and bridges are thought to be relatively safe. But we strongly urge the Division of Highways to check up on all portions of the traffic network often and systematically, just in case.

Dangerous shots in the dark

An open aldermanic discussion on the Granite City Council levy and budget Tuesday quickly dissolved into an unpleasant power play and produced several ill-prepared suggestions that may affect the city's position for a long time in the future.

Fourth Ward Alderman Fred "Pat" Schuman, finance committee chairman, had thrown open his proposed levy and budget before the council for discussion on several occasions. Nothing much was ever said.

Tuesday, the flood gate of politics — mixed with a ready-made audience of residents opposed to an increased levy and budget — broke and rushed out onto the council floor in the form of levy and budget amendments at a maddening pace. Most of the amendments were backed with scant accompanying financial information. Most were just as quickly abandoned or rewritten.

Alderman Sam Whitmer called one such proposal "a shot in the dark," and said he hoped the aldermen were not the ones that would end up being hit.

An example was one alderman's dramatic presentation of a grocery list of budget amendments that he must have kept safely tucked at home during previous council sessions. Whether or not the list contained sound financial proposals seemed to be a mystery.

even the alderman, who admitted he was "not positive" one of his proposals to eliminate the engineering department would result in a savings.

A proposal to eliminate school crossing guards was withdrawn after aldermen decided they better study the plan first to make sure someone will be there this fall to help children cross busy streets. Another quick motion to drop the air pollution department for a supposed savings of $41,000 was accepted. The net savings will probably be closer to half that figure, since that department's budget also supports the city engineer and some of his staff. Were aldermen even aware of the deceptive savings?

A proposal to cut 10 percent of the city's street lights was defeated because, with no prior preparation, aldermen could not determine the effect their decision would have on particularly busy streets or in their own ward.

Some of the proposals might have had merit and helped the city keep property taxes down, but the slapdash nature of the suggested changes cheated the city out of any true benefits that might have resulted.

At a meeting of the city council last night, Mayor A.M. Jennings issued a warning to citizens that the state legislature recently made it a misdemeanor to permit weeds to go to seed. He called attention to the numerous patches of high weeds that year after year decorate vacant lots, making Granite City unsightly and cautioned owners to get busy before it becomes necessary to invoke the new law through the police department. Hereafter, enforcement of weed cutting depended upon a city ordinance.

As a group of landowners near Pogg made plans last week for a protest meeting Wednesday night in Edwardsville, the "wraps" were taken off recent efforts to obtain options on approximately 2,000 acres of ground and it was officially disclosed that the acreage is intended for a four-year university site. John S. Rendleman, Southern Illinois University legal counsel, said the university is behind the option-seeking and is currently interested in two tracts of land to the east and west of Edwardsville. The university, however, has no funds for land acquisition and the estimated $1½ million purchase price would be raised by public subscription under the direction of the Southwestern Illinois Council for Higher Education. Rendleman said the sites are being selected on the basis of location, accessibility, topography and access to utilities.

A group of parents in the Madison School District is filing suit today at the Madison County Circuit Court, charging that the school system failed to submit a court-ordered desegregation plan by June 29. The district took note of the court order by revising student assignments. It did not file a plan to assure 50-50 racial proportions at elementary schools, although this will be the result at Louis Baer School where all fifth and sixth grades will attend. The suit asks that the board be held in contempt for not filing a plan.

Heroes have obligation to show high morals

To the Editor:

Hero-worship is prevalent. The heroes today are actors, rock stars, athletes and politicians. Should they be given license to live as they choose? How much do they owe their public?

Young America keeps grabbing a fistful of air, chasing the wind, seeking that certain something to believe in. Some have sought that intangible ethereal dream through drugs, or religious cults, or some "cause" to fight, for or against. Others simply hero-worship — living their lives vicariously. In hypnotic state, a pseudo-identity.

Thousands copied the Beatles, enchanted by their music. The Beatles ushered in the era of long hair and deafening rock. A new lifestyle emerged — with millions of devoted hero-worshipping fans. What a shock it was to hear John Lennon was murdered by one of those devoted fans! It is hard to comprehend the "mass hysteria" in evidence among the mourners at the mass of his death. Both pathetic and so sad. To Yoko goes sympathy. To John immortality.

Who decides who next will be bestowed immortality? Creative abundance. How does one separate one "great" from another? Making him a super-star? The People! You! I do!

The adulation of Elvis Presley is another example of hero-worship overkill. A phenomena. Elvis imitators pop up everywhere. Fans worship at his shrine and weep. Still adored. Elvis memorabilia is big bucks business. To me, he was just a nice looking guy, with a not so spectacular singing voice, who did a lot of shaking. But what do I know? The Beatles admired and even copied his style. They were his fans. Above are just two examples of hero-worship and the tremendous impact of what amounts to idolatry, has on a nation. Fans identify with their heroes, given love, never judging, often to discover a small person has been masquerading as a giant.

When an idol becomes a famous super-star, he has the audience of kings and queens. Many doors are opened to him. Lives in a fish bowl world — all eyes focused on his every move. He is a role model, like it or not. Setting trends and shaping national values.

The amount a super-star can demand and get for a performance is fantastic.

Even deposed and convicted politicians can command high fees for lectures, or become best selling authors after release from prison. Unsuspecting by their shame. Movie stars and rock stars convicted of drug offenses are paroled, and paid to lecture on drug rehabilitation, although admitting to taking the "cure," — for the seventh time. Something is wrong. Some of our idols have feet of clay, but are making fools of us and laughing at us — all the way to the bank.

We get what we ask for. Remember the morals clauses in old Hollywood contracts? Just a hint of scandal could ruin a career. If they did stray, at least they tried to be discreet — not rub our noses in it. Remember when a divorced man didn't have a prayer of a chance of being elected to public office? Now, he can sit in Congress or even the Oval Office. Today, a movie queen can divorce and marry her leading man . . . again . . . and again . . . and still remain a movie queen, welcomed in the most respected circles, to rub elbows with royalty.

We hear where our oh so respectable politicians in our government have their own X-rated personal bedrooms scenes . . . but, most, stay in office. We forgive.

Daytime soaps have more sex and crime than some E-rated movies. Our sensibilities continue to be shocked. Nothing is left to the imagination. Startle. Police report violence is on the increase and attribute it to the increased use of drugs and lurid movies with the impression they make; implanting sadistic ideas into sick minds who later act them out on innocent victims.

We get what we will accept. If we, the people, refused to listen to a musician, watch a movie star, or elect a public official who betrays our trust by their conduct, at least that person won't become a millionaire at our expense. Moral decay can destroy a nation as easily as war and famine. Condoning wrong is an acceptance of it. We are so hung up on our own individual rights, we've lost sight of what is right for the nation as a whole. To continue "civil rights" with the right to debauch is folly.

We owe it to ourselves to accept only the highest standards of conduct from our national heroes — heroes by privilege, not right. SHOCKED READER

EMT contends air bags would save lives here

To the Editor:

Sometimes I agree "with" you, sometimes I don't, more often than not both sides of an issue can at least be recognized as having some degree of validity, or at least of being tenable.

However, in no way, shape, or form can the above be said of your recent editorial dismissing (1) the need for, (2) effectiveness of, or (3) the responsibility of Detroit to bring air bag technology to American automobiles — and thus to our families, neighbors, and even ourselves as drivers.

For the very reasons you yourself mention regarding the ineffectiveness of seatbelts — whether manual or the automatic passive restraint type — they are as bad or worse than nothing at all, for they all too often lead to a false sense of security, especially when unused.

The reality of the situation here is that since seatbelts are so cumbersome and troublesome (a fact that few of us can honestly deny, especially during the frequent short trips that we all make daily), they naturally become seldom used. This factor must be taken into the account of their total effectiveness, which is, overall, dismal.

Far from being an Edsel, as you put it, the air bag is a safe, trustworthy and proven lifesaver. This is why the Supreme Court asked the Department of Transportation to justify its rescinding of this most beneficial system, one already proven to save lives that are now being needlessly lost.

I would much rather see Detroit once again exercise its long-lost tradition of innovation. The emphasis on innovation in the automotive field has proven to be one of Japan's emerging strengths and, in no small way, accounts for their burgeoning success in this country. Here is Detroit's opportunity to act, and act positively, rather than resume their reactionary trend of recent decades by looking backwards and fighting against progress and safety.

When the average price of cars today is $10,000 to $15,000 and going up $500 to $800 each year, who can honestly believe that a $250 increase in the overall price of cars is going to hurt anybody? The added benefits of safety will, rather, make these new models even more desirable when the truths about airbags become known by the American people.

With cars becoming increasingly smaller and lighter and frameless, as trucks get larger and heavier, with DUI's being ever present on our country's highways and city streets, and as our society demands of our lifestyles ever increasing mobility, our exposed risks in automobiles will only increase with each new day. As soon as American automobiles come out with airbags, I'll be one of the first in line for these safer new vehicles. Until then, I refuse to pay Detroit more for less and less (including safety).

As a firefighter, paramedic, EMT, and EMT instructor, I see daily the accumulating effects of delay here. As but one example, 80 percent of all epilepsies come from cerebral trauma, and most of this from head-on collisions through windshields. Shocking but true! I find it wholly untenable, incomprehensible, and just downright unconscionable for anyone to be opposed to installing airbags. ASAPH — Because you, sir, are an agent and advocate of the public interest, I respectfully request that you reconsider and hopefully reverse your position and, henceforth, positively promote this vital addition to the public and private safety of all.

These have been strong words, surely, but words nurtured by a desire to save lives and reduce needless human suffering — especially when engineering inertia and corporate greed are the main stumbling blocks involved in this issue.

Fad diets ignore nutrition balance

By VIRGINIA HILL
State Council On Nutrition

My dictionary says a fad is something that everybody is interested in for a short time. It's a craze or a rage. That is certainly true of many of the new diets.

There seems to be no limit to the amount of money people will spend on diets that are touted as "cure-alls" for the problem of overweight.

Here are some facts about diets and the habits of dieters.

— Between 85 and 95 percent of perennial dieters fail to keep weight off more than two years.

— Of the 18,000 diets in this country, only about 5 percent are successful.

— The odds are against dieters. An estimated 95 percent of those who try to lose weight fail.

— It is estimated that each year over 70 million Americans spend upward of $10 billion for anti-obesity prescriptions, over-the-counter appetite suppressants, reducing pills and diuretics, diet books, mechanical reducing devices, health spas, and special diets. Over-the-counter weight control products alone now account for $110 million in sales annually, and this figure is expected to reach $194 million by 1985.

— Dr. Joseph Rechtschaffen estimates the average U.S. adult has been on 10 to 15 different diets. But though they invest heavily in an endless stream of fad diets and quick-weight-loss schemes, 80 million Americans remain seriously overweight and a recent national survey showed they are fatter today than ever before.

No group is more vulnerable to these dangerous and self-defeating diets than women between the ages of 15-40.

— Starvation diets can result in weight loss caused by the body losing fluid. However, when one returns to normal eating habits, one gains back the fluid originally lost and often more.

The Council on Nutrition has prepared a booklet, "Rating the Diets," about 16 popular weight loss plans.

Each of the diet plans is compared to the recommended dietary allowances (RDAs) to determine if it contains enough nutrients to keep one healthy.

Generally, a fad diet is somewhat bizarre and will not meet the RDAs because it recommends one food group rather than a balance of all four food groups.

Of the 16 diet plans compared in the booklet, the four that met the RDAs were balanced. In other words, they had meat or an alternate; fruits and vegetables; skim milk; and bread and grains.

In these diet plans, however, sugar, honey, syrups and alcoholic beverages were restricted or excluded completely from the meal pattern.

The caloric value ranged from 1,100 to 1,600 calories daily. These four diet plans provided variety, used foods readily available, and were relatively inexpensive.

The booklet also includes some ideas to consider when dieting. A few of the hints are as follows:

1. Keep food out of sight. You will not think so much about it.

2. Don't skip meals. Chances are you will overeat the next meal.

3. When you get the urge to eat do something else, such as going for a walk.

4. Enlist the aid of your family. It is good to have a support group.

5. Drink water. You need it and it replaces snacks.

6. Crash diets do not work for long because someone can't stay on them. Often the only weight that is lost is water, not fat. Some fad diets can be dangerous. It is risky to eliminate any of the four food groups when on a diet; you need them all.

Ask yourself the following questions when choosing a diet plan: Does it include all the basic food groups I need? Or is there someone promoting the diet, and who is it going to help — your pocketbook or me?

With so many different diets to choose from, be cautious. The best advice is still to eat just what some people call "the balance of everything," to exercise more, and to push yourself away from the table.

The best diet is still one of moderation. Choose smaller portions of a wide variety of foods from each of the four food groups. In order to achieve the balance of nutrients you need for good health, nutrients are in all foods, not just a few.

Early Pregnancy, Prepared Childbirth classes at SEMC

The Obstetrics Department at St. Elizabeth Medical Center is offering free Early Pregnancy and Prepared Childbirth classes. The Early pregnancy classes are for women less than six months pregnant. These classes are held for three consecutive weeks and offer instruction in nutrition, exercise and breast-feeding. Women also learn how their bodies change during pregnancy and how the fetus develops.

Prepared childbirth classes are for women from their sixth month of pregnancy until delivery. This five-week series of classes includes the Lamaze method of breathing and relaxation, body conditioning, breastfeeding information and an introduction to baby care. Participants learn about the process of labor and delivery and the types of analgesics used in labor. A tour of the Obstetrics Department also is provided.

The next Early Pregnancy series will begin Aug. 25. Prepared Childbirth classes begin Aug. 1 for the Monday night series and Aug. 1 for the Tuesday night series.

The next series of prepared childbirth classes will be offered beginning Sept. 19.

All classes are from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at McKinley School. Expectant mothers interested in these classes may register by calling the Obstetrics Department of SEMC at 788-3940.

Local students visiting Germany, Austria with Youth Orchestra

The Youth Orchestra, a group of 100 young musicians between ages of 12 and 25 from the Greater St. Louis Area, returned this week from Germany and Austria. To be a member of the group, players must audition, be selected and attend three hour rehearsals on Saturdays.

The conductor of the orchestra is Catherine Connet. Local players are: David Oyen, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Oyen and Denise Bard, 15, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bard.

Both play bassoon in the Granite City High School Band as well as in the Youth Orchestra.

Last year, David was a junior at South and Denise, who had moved here from her parents from El Paso, Texas, was a sophomore at North. They did not know each other until they met in the bassoon section of the Youth Orchestra.

From June 30 to July 5, the players were the guests of the City of Stuttgart, Germany, the sister city of St. Louis. Tours and concerts were given there. A group from Stuttgart will come to St. Louis to play at the Strassentest this summer.

July 6 to 8, the group was in Munich, Germany, and Salzburg, Austria, for touring and concerts. July 9 to 14 was spent in Vienna, Austria, where the orchestra competed with other Youth Orchestras invited from all over the world in the International Youth and Music Festival.

There was sightseeing sandwiched between rehearsals and concerts. One was a boat trip along the Hungarian-Austrian border, followed by a dinner with gypsy music.

Players also visited many musically historic spots, including houses where Beethoven, Mozart and Schubert lived while in Vienna. Concluding the trip were: July 15, a Salzburg tour and concert; July 16, a Karlsruhe, Germany concert; and July 17, return to St. Louis.

Blood drive Aug. 4 at SEMC

On Thursday, Aug. 4, St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City will sponsor a blood drive from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the hall.

"The greatest gift a person can give is the gift of life," says Sister Mary Thomas, president of SEMC.

"Donating blood is a very personal thing. It's very gratifying knowing you have helped others by giving of yourself in some small way," she added.

Prospective donors must be healthy persons 17 years or older. Donors over 85 years-of-age need a recent health statement from their doctor. Blood may be donated every eight weeks and donors need not know their blood type.

"Each person gives less than a pint of blood," says Pat Davis, associate health nurse at SEMC, "and the after effects are minimal, since the body replaces the liquid portion of the blood quickly. The energy loss might be compared to the exertion required for a half-mile walk."

The giving of blood takes from seven to 15 minutes. To help replenish fluids, donors will be served refreshments afterwards.

For more information, interested persons may contact SEMC at 788-3928.

A resident of the 2700 block of East 24th Street arrived home last week and saw a youth about 15 years old, leaning on the fence near a trash dumpster at the rear of Roderick's Restaurant, 2723 E. 24th St.

After he was told to leave, the youth got on a bicycle and fled north on Nameoki Road.

Some papers left at the scene were found to belong to Mrs. Virgie Wallace, 402 Kirkpatrick Homes, who was contacted. She then discovered the screen door at her home had been cut above the handle and said a large black purse, containing $600 cash, papers, and jewelry, was missing.

The empty purse was recovered the following morning in the 300 block of Kirkpatrick Homes, reports said.

The youth seen near where the papers were found had light brown hair, parted in the middle. He was about 5 feet, 8 inches tall, weighed about 140 pounds and was wearing a dark blue shirt and jeans, reports said.

LAWNMOWER GONE

A yellow and black lawnmower valued at $349 was stolen from the yard of the home of Iva Newberry, 1620 Fifth St., Madison, she reported during the weekend. The machine had been left near the porch, she said.

DISCHARGE ORDER ON STATE THEFT CHARGE

Doyle R. McCullie, 39, of 1357 Edwardsville Road has been placed on 18-month conditional discharge by Circuit Judge Philip Rarick. McCullie was charged June 11, 1981, with three counts of theft of more than $150 in value (a felony allegation). The charges were filed by the Illinois Bureau of Investigation.

Judge Rarick on July 7 received a guilty plea to one of the counts and ordered conditional discharge. The judge dismissed the other two counts at the request of the state's attorney. In June 1981, Circuit Judge A.A. Mateosian dismissed a state charge based on an alleged May 13, 1981, theft.

Drink less, enjoy longer life and save your liver

By GERALDINE L. BOWERS
Ph.D.
University of Illinois

Alcohol has many effects on the body, some good and some bad. "If you drink alcohol, do so in moderation," is the dietary guideline that encourages Americans to keep their drinking to a minimum, thus avoiding alcohol's bad effects.

Most of us know about the intoxicating effects of alcohol on individuals but few people know how much damage excessive alcohol consumption can do.

Sheil Ashbrook, University of Illinois Extension foods and nutrition specialist, says excessive alcohol adversely affects the liver and brain and can cause birth defects.

Nutritional consequences of excessive drinking include overweight and nutrient deficiencies.

The liver usually breaks down the alcohol at a constant rate, no matter how much or how fast alcohol is consumed. When people drink more than their livers can accommodate, their blood alcohol level rises dramatically and the brain is affected.

As a result, judgment is impaired. When the alcohol level in the blood reaches 0.1 percent, a person is legally intoxicated.

Those who drink "just a little bit too much" over a long period of time are running a very real risk of permanent brain and liver damage.

The calories in alcohol are hidden calories until they show up in the waistline. Alcohol contains about seven calories per gram, while protein and carbohydrates contain only four.

Some people "fill up" on the high but empty calories in alcohol and lose their appetites for nutritious foods.

Alcohol that is consumed on an empty stomach does more damage faster than alcohol consumed by someone who has just eaten.

Recent research has focused on the effects of alcohol consumed by pregnant women — their unborn babies.

Alcohol is one drug that does cross the placenta, so part of what she drinks will reach the fetus. It is likely that the more she drinks, the more the baby is affected.

The fetus is most affected by alcohol consumed early in pregnancy when the baby's organs and other systems are just starting to develop.

There is much disagreement about whether pregnant women should completely eliminate alcohol from their diet. Pregnant women should ask their doctors whether one drink now and then is safe for them.

This guideline is not intended to scare moderate drinkers. The point is that more than one or two drinks is too much, and too much over a long period of time can be very harmful.

Many people have the mistaken idea that parties and get-togethers can't be fun without alcoholic beverages. But many festive and good-tasting party drinks can be made without using alcohol.

Because more and more people are choosing not to drink, you may want to try offering non-alcoholic party beverages instead of — or in addition to — the "spiked" punch.

For lasty, nonalcoholic party beverages, Quad-Cities may contact the Madison County Extension office in Edwardsville at 656-8400.

Probation in cannabis case

Betty Urrey, 48, of 2110 Missouri Ave. has been placed on two-year probation by Circuit Judge P.J. O'Neill for delivering cannabis on Jan. 19.

The charge was filed by the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois on June 16. A guilty plea was entered in early July.

In addition to being placed on probation, she was fined $500 and $50 special costs and was ordered to make restitution of $80.

Associate Judge Edward Ferguson has dismissed an unrelated June 20 Metropolitan Enforcement Group charge against Danny Huebner, 21, of 2215 Iowa St. It was alleged that he delivered a controlled substance Feb. 1.

The dismissal was based on a motion by the state's attorney.

ESCAPES INJURY

Mark W. Carney, 20, of 2023 Bryan Ave., escaped injury early Monday, when the car he was driving east on 16th Street at Cleveland Boulevard had a flat tire, went out of control and collided with a steel post on the south side of the street.

Carney was charged with being a minor in possession of alcohol and illegal transportation of alcohol when three cans of beer allegedly were found in the vehicle.

Simon talks of job, tax issues

Deated for the 1972 governor nomination party due to confusion over his tax views, Congressman Paul Simon made his position perfectly clear Monday as he announced his candidacy for the U.S. Senate 1984 Democratic nomination.

Flying to eight cities in nine hours for press conferences, Simon cited high unemployment and rising taxes and put the blame for both on Senator Charles H. Percy, the Republican who hopes to win a fourth six-year term.

He said Percy supported the Reagan administration in a course of action that has "meant the loss of tens of thousands of Illinois jobs and near-disaster for many families."

Simon added, "The new tax increases in Illinois and Chicago were forced in part by the national administration's economic policy, supported strongly by Mr. Percy."

The former Granite City-Troy area state legislator, who was lieutenant governor in 1969-72, resides in Mankato. He has represented the southern Illinois district in Congress for five two-year terms.

At St-State Parks Airport in Cahokia, he said he is prepared to "leave the safety of a House seat and its seniority" in the hope of having greater impact on national decisions as a senator, and with the goal of helping to restore a Democratic majority in the Senate.

Simon said he wants to push for "sensitivity to urban problems" that have been ignored by the present administration and by "the senator from Cook County."

The 22nd Congressional District takes in a portion of St. Clair County and includes all or part of 21 of the state's 102 counties.

He said tax boosts in Illinois, including efforts to raise taxes on grain and other goods, and the problems of cities can all be traced in part to Reagan policies actively backed by the incumbent senator.

"To those heavily dependent on exports in areas like Rock Island, Peoria, Decatur, Rockford and Springfield, as well as to farmers, it should be noted that the drop in exports is directly related to federal economic policies," Simon asserted.

Declining to discuss the qualifications of his primary rivals, he said, "My hope is for a vigorous but not divisive battle. We can avoid that."

Simon said his record in Congress is evidence of his strong support for education.

He commented that he would welcome the support of Democratic slatemakers but that "I am a candidate whether I am endorsed or not."

He expects to spend $1,500,000 in the March primary race and $2,500,000 in the November 1984 general election campaign.

GC seeks alternate school crossing guards

Granite City currently is accepting applications from residents for positions as alternate school crossing guards. It was announced this week by Mayor Paul Schuler.

Three or four persons are needed prior to Aug. 23 when the 1983-84 school year begins for Granite City youngsters, the mayor said.

Those interested are asked to apply as soon as possible. Applications may be picked up during regular business hours at the mayor's office in the City Hall, 2000 Edison Ave. Completed forms also should be returned there.

Several crossing guards have retired this year and their posts have been filled with those having no experience on the alternate list, Police Chief Ronald J. Veizer advised.

Those applying, either male or female, must be residents of Granite City in good health and have a vehicle available, the police chief said. A physical and eye examination will be given qualified candidates.

The current pay scale for crossing guards is $14.50 per day for three hours work, split into morning, mid-day and afternoon shifts.

Alternate guards must be available for call-out when those on the permanent roster are unable to work due to sickness or for other reasons, Chief Veizer said.

Granite City employs 15 crossing guards at schools in the community.

ALCOHOL CHARGE

Mark E. Lewis, 19, of 2626 Sheridan Ave., was charged with being a minor in possession of alcohol when arrested during the weekend in the parking area of Ponderosa Steak House, 1511 Johnson Road. An officer dispersing people from the lot alleged Lewis was carrying an open can of beer. He was released to his mother on notice to appear for a hearing.

VACATION IN EAST

Mr. and Mrs. Tom (Kathy) Green and children, Tom Jr. and Kimbrell, have returned from a vacation. They were guests of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles DeWeese, Shell and Mike in Chaeoast, Pa. Points of interest visited included Philadelphia, New York City and Washington, D.C.

Mehelic trial near

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record
The case of a Nameoki Township official accused of official misconduct and theft of services is set for docket
call today in the Third Judicial Circuit Court in Edwardsville.

A trial date for Highway
Commissioner Frank Mehelic is expected to be set soon, following the docket call, according to the state's attorney's office.

The trial has been assigned to Circuit Judge P.J.
O'Neill and will be presented by Assistant State's Attorney Susan Jensen. She declined to comment on the nature of the case, including who she plans to call as presentation witnesses.

Mehelic has been free on a $35,000 recognizance bond

Appeal in GC court Monday

In a court appearance
Monday in Granite City,
Patrick P. McGowan Jr., 21, of 2666 Edwards St., pleaded innocent to alleged battery and requested a jury trial.

He was released on a $5,000 recognizance bond to appear Aug. 5.

McGowan was arrested
during the weekend in connection with an incident occurring July 9 in the Kirkpatrick Homes when Robert Householder, 403 Kirkpatrick Homes, was injured after allegedly being knocked to the ground and kicked.

Householder was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center and released.

James Hidy, 23, of 206
Kirkpatrick Homes, arrested during the weekend and charged with battery in the same case, also appeared in court Monday. He entered a guilty plea and was fined $100 and released.

A third man allegedly involved in the case, Jason W.
Beck, 21, of 1507 Kirkpatrick Homes, was arrested at the same time as the other two,
but posted a $500 cash bond and was released that night.

No. 93 33 7 21 28; 8 4

after pleading not guilty to his arraignment May 20 before Chief Circuit Judge A.
Andreas Matoesian of Granite City. Mehelic was indicted by a Madison County grand jury May 19 on one felony count of official misconduct and seven misdemeanor counts of theft of services.

Following the grand jury probe, Mehelic accused State's Attorney Don Weber of political motives in seeking the indictment. Mehelic has denied any wrongdoing.

The grand jury first heard evidence concerning the investigation in March after the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation instituted the probe.

The indictments on seven thief of services charges stem from alleged misconduct, including directing "township employees, while employed by Nameoki Township and during regular working hours," to perform a variety of jobs for Mehelic.

He allegedly directed employees to perform maintenance work on his wife's and daughter's personal cars; dig and lay a sewer at a mobile home he owns; build a duck blind for him; perform grading work at a racetrack not on his property; build a barn on his property; do grading and backhoe work on his property and do maintenance work on his personal backhoe and tractor.

Mehelic is being defended
by attorney Carl H. Runge Jr. of Collinsville. Runge is out of town this week and could not be reached for comment.

BRAZEN BURGLAR STEALS JEWELRY
While the William W. Garris family was in the backyard barbecuing between 6 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.
Monday, a burglar entered their home at 2044 Palmer Ave., apparently through the front door. Garris reported at 10:35 a.m. Tuesday.

Stolen were a set of engagement and wedding rings with six diamonds, valued at $1,050, a man's gold ring with three diamonds, a silver watch, $50, a sweetheart ring, $80,
and keys.

Isbell retained

Jonathan Isbell, who lost his job as a Third Judicial Circuit associate judge in May when he was not retained by vote of the circuit judges, has been reinstated to his former spot by the same judges who voted not to keep him.

Chief Third Judicial Circuit Judge A. Andreas Matoesian of Granite City made the announcement
Monday that Isbell, 52, of Collinsville, won a run-off election against Glenn Bradford, 36, who practices law with the Chapman and Carson law firm in Granite City.

The vote totals from the secret ballots, counted by the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts at Springfield, are not revealed.

The appointment makes Isbell the second associate judge in the circuit during recent years to lose his job and then be reinstated.
Associate Judge Clayton Williams of Alton was appointed in 1972 and lost a similar retention vote in 1979 before being voted by the circuit judges to fill his vacant position.

It had been suggested that Judge Isbell lost the initial retention vote because he refused to "play politics," Isbell told the Globe-
Democrat early this month that his loss of the retention vote might have been due to a lack of communication between associate and circuit judges.

Isbell and Bradford were the leaders among nine candidates for the position after a first-round vote. The associate judge position pays $60,000 a year.
